Leasing vs. Buying a Toyota in Tucson | Precision Toyota - https://www.pretoy.com/buying-vs-leasing/

Leasing vs. buying a Toyota in Tucson

How a Toyota lease works, what it costs from signing to lease end, and how to decide which suits you.

A lease usually costs less each month than a loan on the same Toyota. You drive it for a set term within a yearly mileage allowance, then return it, buy it, or lease a new one. Buying costs more each month, but the vehicle is yours, with no mileage limit.

This month's lease offers.

Low monthly payments on new Toyotas, updated every month.

Ending a lease?

We take returns for Toyota Financial Services and many other banks.

How lease returns work

Questions?

Our sales team is here seven days a week.

Call (520) 795-5565

How a Toyota lease works.

You pay for the part of the vehicle's value you use, not for the whole vehicle.

A lease payment covers how much the vehicle is expected to lose in value while you drive it, plus a rent charge (the lease version of interest) and taxes. Because you aren't paying off the full price, the monthly payment is usually lower than a loan on the same Toyota.

Toyota leases are written by Toyota Financial Services. You choose how long the lease runs and how many miles a year you expect to drive, and approval depends on your credit.

What you pay, and when.

When	What it covers
At signing	Your first month's payment, Toyota Financial Services' acquisition fee, our documentation fee, taxes, title and registration, and any down payment you choose to make. A refundable security deposit may also apply.
Each month	Your lease payment, for the length of the lease.
At lease end	If you return the vehicle: a disposition fee of up to $350, plus charges for miles over your allowance or wear beyond normal use. If you buy it: the purchase price written into your lease.

Toyota's advertised lease examples leave out dealer fees, so ask us for the full amount due at signing on the exact vehicle you want. A larger down payment lowers the monthly payment, but if the vehicle is stolen or totaled during the lease, that money is usually not returned.

Lease or buy?

Compare	Lease	Buy
Monthly payment	Usually lower	Usually higher
Ownership	The bank owns it; you can buy it at lease end	Yours once the loan is paid off

Miles	A yearly allowance you choose at signing	No limit
Repairs	Mostly under Toyota's basic warranty (3 years or 36,000 miles)	Under warranty at first, then yours
Changes	Keep it close to how it left the factory	Customize as you like
When you're done	Return it, buy it, or lease a new Toyota	Keep it, sell it, or trade it in

A lease may suit you if you

- like driving a new Toyota every few years
- want a lower monthly payment
- drive about the same number of miles each year
- would rather not sell or trade in a used car

Buying may suit you if you

- keep your vehicles for many years
- drive a lot of miles
- want to customize your vehicle
- look forward to years with no car payment

Choose your miles up front.

A standard Toyota Financial Services lease allows up to 15,000 miles a year, and you choose your allowance when you sign.

Toyota's advertised lease offers are based on 12,000 miles a year, so the allowance you pick changes the payment. A low-mileage lease (up to 10,000 miles a year) lowers it. If you'll drive more than 15,000, you can buy extra miles up front, which is easier to plan for than a bill at the end. Miles over your allowance cost $0.15 each on Toyota's current offers.

To find your total allowance, multiply the years by the yearly miles: three years at 15,000 miles a year is 45,000 miles.

When your lease ends.

You have three choices: lease a new Toyota, buy the one you're driving, or simply return it. We take lease returns for Toyota Financial Services and many other banks.

1 Book a free pre-inspection

If your lease is with Toyota Financial Services, schedule its courtesy inspection about 60 days before you return the vehicle. You'll see any wear charges while there's still time to fix them.

2 Decide what's next

If your Toyota Financial Services lease is in good standing, leasing or financing your next new or Certified Toyota through Toyota Financial Services within 30 days of your return waives the disposition fee.

3 Bring it to us

Drive it to 700 W Wetmore Road and ask for our Finance Department. If your lease isn't with Toyota Financial Services, call us first at (520) 795-5565 to confirm we can take it. Bring every key and remote, and anything that came with the vehicle.

4 Settle up with the bank

Your leasing bank, not the dealership, bills any charges for extra miles or wear. For leases after January 27, 2026, Toyota Financial Services waives up to $500 of excess wear and use charges (missing keys and equipment excluded).

Programs that can help.

Toyota's Military Rebate and College Graduate Rebate can be applied to a Toyota Financial Services lease on eligible new models, one rebate per lease. Our current offers show what's available this month.

Every new Toyota, leased or bought, comes with ToyotaCare, which covers oil changes, tire rotations, and multi-point inspections for a period of time after purchase.

Questions, answered.

Is it better to lease or buy a car?

It depends on how you drive and how long you keep a car. Leasing usually means a lower monthly payment and a new vehicle every few years, within a yearly mileage allowance. Buying costs more each month, but you own the car, with no mileage limit and no payments once the loan is paid off.

What do I pay when I sign a Toyota lease?

Usually your first month's payment, Toyota Financial Services' acquisition fee, our documentation fee, taxes, title and registration, and any down payment you choose to make. A refundable security deposit may also apply. Toyota's advertised lease examples leave out dealer fees, so ask us for the full amount due at signing on the exact vehicle you want.

What happens at the end of a Toyota lease?

You choose: lease a new Toyota, buy the vehicle at the purchase price in your lease, or return it. If you return it, Toyota Financial Services may charge a disposition fee of up to $350, plus charges for extra miles or excess wear. The disposition fee is waived if your account is in good standing and you lease or finance your next new or Certified Toyota through Toyota Financial Services within 30 days.

Where can I return a leased car in Tucson?

Bring it to Precision Toyota of Tucson at 700 W Wetmore Road and ask for our Finance Department. We take lease returns for Toyota Financial Services and many other banks; if your lease is with another bank, call us first at (520) 795-5565 to confirm.

What if I drive more than my mileage allowance?

You pay for each extra mile when you return the vehicle: $0.15 a mile on Toyota's current lease offers. If you expect to drive more, it's easier to buy extra miles when you sign.

Can I end a Toyota lease early?

Yes, but early termination charges may apply and can be substantial. Ask the bank that holds your lease; for Toyota Financial Services, that's toyotafinancial.com. If you'd like to move into a new Toyota, our sales team can go over your options with you.

We can't wait to welcome you.

Giving back to our hometown, and beyond.

School supplies, toys, and food

We fill a Toyota with school supplies for local students in August, with food for families in need in the fall, and with toys for kids in December.

Homes for shelter pets

We host pet adoption days that help local shelter pets find families.

Youth sports

We support youth sports leagues every year.

More than 110,000 trees funded since 2021.

Five trees for every vehicle we sell. Every sale funds tree planting through Eden Reforestation Projects and Cool Earth, which hire local people to plant and protect forests.
